JALLIANWALA BAGH MASSACRE 1919 CENTENARY COMMITTEE AFFILIATION:

The Committee has been active in the general campaign since 2016. Since then, it has grown to include individuals and bodies from around the United Kingdom. To help focus support activities, it took the name of Centenary Committee in 2018. Always placing itself within the broad campaign for a formal apology, it has supported and publicized various initiatives as well as launching its own-

- Campaign to reform the education curriculum for schools to include the JBM and other atrocities in a new balanced history of the British Empire (and securing the National Education Union's backing for this)

The Committee's work for these particular initiatives has always contained a recognition that the JBM issue must be brought to the attention of the trade unions, the Labour Party, and the wider labour movement of the UK, including its individual grass-roots activists.

Continuing our efforts for a formal apology cannot stop because the Massacre's centenary date has been and gone. Neither the victims nor the cynical, cold-blooded political calculations behind it will allow that.

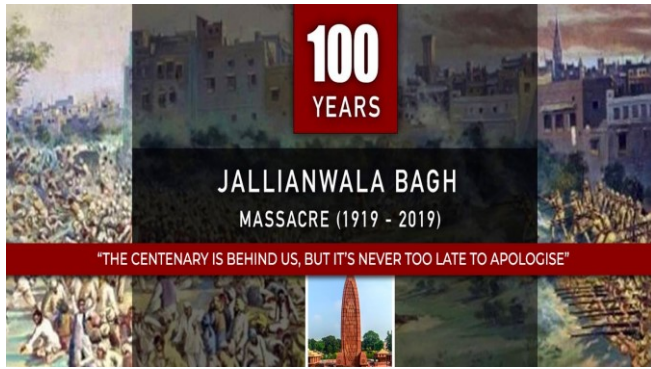

The Centenary Committee's energies will be directed over the next year to:

- Getting trade unions to endorse the call for a formal apology
- Convincing trade unions (at all levels) to affiliate to the Centenary Committee
- Encouraging trade unions at a national level to publicise the on-line petition amongst their members and to add their General Secretaries' names to it
- Asking trade unions for access to their Conferences and delegates with publicity stalls, fringe meetings and articles in their press
